

Laboratory Operations Manager - Berkeley

Regel Therapeutics is a gene modulation therapy company focused on improving the life of patients suffering from disorders resulting from alteration of gene expression. Our proven T3 (Targeted Therapeutic Technology) platform combines AAV delivery with two proprietary technologies for efficient and specific restoration of gene expression exclusively in the cells affected by the pathology. We are a seed-stage startup based in Cambridge, MA and Berkeley, CA and we are looking for a talented Laboratory Operations Manager to support our scientific operations.

Location

Berkeley, CA

Role Responsibilities

- Maintain inventory of all supplies and reagents
- Track and maintain records of monthly expenses
- Manage relationships with vendors, facilities, and partners
- Assist with onboarding/training of new employees
- Prepare and maintain stock of common solutions/reagents
- Maintain cleanliness & organization of lab space
- Coordinate team meetings & events

Required Qualifications

- BA/BS or MS in life sciences-related field with 2+ years of operations experience in a laboratory/biotech setting
- Familiarity with equipment/reagents/supplies used in molecular biology, cloning, tissue culture workflows
- Excellent written and oral communication skills
- Exceptional organizational skills
- Proven track record of working in collaborative environments

Preferred Qualifications

- Previous experience as an operations/lab manager in a large academic laboratory and/or biotech company

Contact

Interested candidates please apply here: LinkedIn